SYLLABUS

Straub, R.O. Discovering psychology: A guide to active study to accompany Psychology by D.G. Myers. New York: Worth

EXAMINATIONS: Friday, Sept. 25; Friday, Oct. 23; Friday, Nov. 20; and FINAL EXAM -- Saturday, December 12th, 11:30 AM - 2:30 PM)

Number two pencils are required. Exams 1, 2 & 3 will contain 50 questions. The final exam will contain 150 questions and will cover the entire semester. Your scores on these exams will constitute 85% of your grade (15%, 15%, 15%, and 40%, respectively).

If you miss an exam, you must present me with a verifiable excuse (i.e., written). I (and/or Dean Middleton) will judge the validity of the excuse. If we find it unacceptable, you will get a "0" for the exam. If we find it acceptable, a make-up exam will be scheduled.

RECITATION SECTIONS: These sections are an integral part of this course. Attendance is required, and exams will be given (contributing 15% to your grade). Presentations by your instructor and/or class discussions will involve review as well as new materials. Your section instructor will provide more details during the first meeting. Recitation meetings start the week of August 31st.

OFFICE HOURS: Dr. Chiszar's office hours are given in the upper right corner of the syllabus. Teaching assistant office hours will be announced during the first meeting of the recitation sections.

READING ASSIGNMENTS: Immediately read pp V-XII of Straub. Read Myers at the rate of 1 1/2 chapters per week. Straub's book parallels Myers, so read each chapter in Straub after you have completed the corresponding chapter in Myers.
